Applicable Conditions and Restrictions

1. Medical Certificate Requirement

Expectant mothers who are more than 28 weeks pregnant must carry a “ Fitness to Fly Medical Confirmation” certificate (medical certificate) completed by their gynecologist or attending physician.

2. Right to Refuse Carriage

Flyyo reserves the right to refuse carriage of an expectant mother who:

- ✓ does not present a valid medical certificate at the check-in counter and/or boarding gate,
- ✓ presents uncertainty regarding the stage of pregnancy or expected delivery date,
- ✓ shows visible signs of pregnancy complications, or
- ✓ appears to be in an unsatisfactory state of health.

3. Travel Without Medical Clearance

Expectant mothers in normal health may travel without medical clearance:

- ✓ Up to and including the 28th week of a single or multiple pregnancy provided they carry a document confirming their pregnancy status

4. Early Medical Clearance

If there is any doubt about the expected date of delivery or if the mother's health condition raises concerns, the airline may require medical clearance earlier than the timeframes stated above.

5. Travel Limitations

For uncomplicated pregnancies, travel is not permitted beyond the 32nd week of pregnancy

I, the undersigned, hereby declare that I am in or below the 32th week of pregnancy at the date of the flight and that my medical doctor has confirmed my fitness to travel.

I will not hold FLYYO (FLYYO S.R.L.) responsible for any subsequent health problems to me or to my unborn child that may occur during or as a result of carriage by air.
